

Brave Julie crosses the Majestic Silver River

It was a windy day in Silver Knolls. The wind was whipping up the waves and whitecaps on Majestic “Silver River”, such a scary sight for Brave Julie. She tried and tried but Silver River flapped and made weird noises and it was just too hard to walk across. Finally with her friend and trainer encouraging her, she made it across one direction and then back across the opposite direction.

When interviewed about her success Julie had but one statement for the press “I’m sure glad that bitch...oops... patient trainer (as she looks over her shoulder) had a real job to go to this afternoon, or else I’d still be going around in circles”

Stay tuned kind readers to next weeks installment...”Patient and Persistent Trainer has Julie run the Reno Marathon without leaving the round pen”

Coming soon, The Trials of Training with Brave Julie and her sidekick,
Mr. Peanut.
